Can Carry on Through April; Barrett to Submit Demands

Chicago, April 12.—(AP)—With predictions of a change in Illinois relief administration circulated freely, Edward Barrett, state auditor, arranged a conference with relief officials at 2 P. M. today. C. R. Taylor, director of the relief branch in the auditor's office, said his superior intended to demand he be given complete control of the commission's disbursements or be relieved of all responsibility.

"Dangerous practices resulting from the decentralized system of disbursement," Taylor said, formed the basis of Barrett's demand. He pointed out that between February 15 and April 6, 2,779 work relief checks were thrown out as a result of investigations made by the commission. During a seven-week period ending on the same date, he added nearly 20,000 checks out of a total of about 320,000 were held back for investigation.

Reynolds Refuses Comment. Wilfred S. Reynolds, head of the Illinois commission, refused comment on the demands, but remarked the number of checks withheld indicated a demonstration of relief irregularities are checked by the commission and were not indicative of system faults.

$15,000 Jewelry Robbery at Early Hour This Morning in Springfield

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—(AP)—Jewelry valued at $15,000 and $400 in cash were taken from a jewelry store at 7:45 A. M. today by two men who held up I. Anthony Rose, the manager.

The men escaped, locking the door with Rose's keys after looting the safe and leaving him with tied hands on the floor.

One shot was fired, apparently accidentally, when Rose was slugged on the head with a pistol. No one was wounded.

Police said the same methods were used several weeks ago in a jewelry robbery at Peoria. The theory

14 High School Pupils Met Death on Railroad Crossing Last Evening

Fast Baltimore - Ohio Train Crashed Into Bus in Maryland

Rockville, Md., April 12.—(AP)—Amid scenes of anguish, parents completed today the tragic task of identifying 14 high school children killed late last night when a fast express train tore a school bus in two at a grade crossing.

As the tale of horror was pieced together by police who questioned shaken and hysterical survivors, fears that the death list might grow were allayed. Of the 15 survivors, who included the bus driver and a school teacher, only two children were still in a hospital today although all were suffering badly from shock.

Wet and Foggy Night. The weather was wet and foggy as the bus—a brand new one bearing the party from a chemistry exhibit at the University of Maryland, College Park, toward their homes at Williamsport, Maryland—approached the grade crossing here.

Though Baltimore & Ohio railroad officials said the crossing

TEACHER'S REACTION

Rockville, Md., April 12.—(AP)—After last night's fatal school bus crash, an odd thing happened—teacher called the roll, and "here" meant living—the absent all were dead.

In the home of Albert M. Boule, Rockville attorney, Miss Louise Funk went about her roll-call task, efficiently and calmly, a school teacher's reaction to a crisis, checking once again her boys and girls. She wrote all the names of those who had been on the bus, the living first, drawing a line at where the missing or dead began, going over the list with check marks to be sure it was complete.

was guarded by a bell and red light, the bus driver declared he did not see the train until he was on the track.

"I heard the whistle just as it hit us," he sobbed afterward. "I didn't see the train until I heard the bell of the engine as I started over the track."

Held for Inquest. The driver, Percy Line, is held here in default of $1,000 bond on a charge of manslaughter pending an inquest which has been set for Tuesday.

It was understood that Wil-

TWO FUGITIVES FROM IOWA PEN ARE CAPTURED

Kirkville, Mo., April 12.—(AP)—Two escaped Iowa penitentiary inmates were under arrest today, captured by state highway patrolmen. The men, L. Carl Evans, 28, Oskaloosa, Ia., and George Sawyer, 28, Des Moines, admitted they escaped from the Fort Madison institution Saturday and committed a robbery and kidnapping in Madison, Wis., Tuesday.

Parker, who was attracted to the men and their woman companion, who gave her name as Mrs. Isabel Gerber, Muscatine, when they circled the square here without lights, was fired upon as he approached to question the trio Wednesday night. He took up the chase, firing several shots, and eventually captured them near Brookfield.

Evans, whose neck was grazed by a bullet, and Sawyer confessed they escaped by driving off in a deputy warden's automobile, exchanging it for another in Illinois, and reaching Madison kidnapping Earl P. Sticks, Stones, Eggs Showered on Anti-War Marchers: Head of Drug Co. Takes Niece Out of Chicago School

"New Ideas" Girl Acquired Distasteful to Drug Magnate

Chicago, April 12.—(AP)—A free-for-all fight, with sticks, stones, eggs and stench bombs as weapons, broke out on the University of Chicago campus today when a group of 500 students attempted to stage a parade following an anti-war meeting in Mandel hall.

More than 2,000 students had attended the anti-war gathering, held as a part of a nationwide demonstration. Upon its completion, several hundreds of the participants formed in line for a parade around the campus.

They had gone about a block when other students blocked the way and showered them with eggs.

No Serious Injuries.

The marchers reorganized their lines just east of the campus. They then marched back to the university quadrangle, where they again met opposition.

A rain of eggs and stench bombs threw the procession into disorder and the marchers dispersed, pursued by their enemies.

A checkup showed that apparently no one was severely hurt, although several bloody heads and black eyes were evident.

An attendance of only a fraction of the 2,000 had been expected, but the interest of the students east of the students had been whetted by the action of Charles R. Walgreen, head of a drug store chain, in withdrawing his niece from the university yesterday because of alleged "communist influences" present in the institution.

Others Slightly Interested.

Slight interest in the one-hour "strike" was evidenced at Northwestern University in suburban Evanston or Loyola University in the north side.

Police seized six students of Wilbur Wright junior college for distributing pamphlets urging participation in the "one-hour strike" against war. Taken to the Irving Park police station, they were ordered released by Police Commissioner James P. Allmen and sent to their classes.

Walgreen said in a statement last night his action was taken after "serious and moderate thinking" and after his niece, Miss Lucille Norton, 15, of Seattle, had told him about "the new ideas she was acquiring."

Not Only Preventive.

"Apparently she was being taught that Communism was the only preventive of war," he said, "when as a matter of fact there are many preventives."

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the university declined to comment on the withdrawal, but said he had received a letter from Walgreen concerning his niece.

The president and trustees of the university were understood to have held a meeting to discuss the action, but no statement was issued.

Trouble Last Night.

A half dozen spectators at a patriotic meeting in the university field house were pummeled and one was clubbed with a bugle last night when one student sought to prolong the gathering after its scheduled conclusion.

The student, John Barden, was felled and flats began to fly.

The melee was ended with the arrival of police. Two thousand persons, more than half of them members of the American Legion, were present, and Edward Hayes, Past National Commander of the Legion, was a speaker.

ROAD HOUSES GIVEN EXTRA HOUR TO OPEN

Supervisors Extended Closing to Midnight of Each Day

Owners and proprietors of road houses in Lee county were defended by certain members of the board of supervisors this morning in another effort to establish regulations which would be satisfactory to both the county and those engaged in this business. Supervisor Leon Hart of Palmyra headed the defense in discussing another resolution presented by the newly appointed judiciary committee at this morning's session.

"If this board will play ball with the road house proprietors, they will play ball with us. They are just entitled, and legally so, to operate a road house as a grocery store. I am not taking a stand for the road houses and never have, but I have been informed that this group plans to secure an injunction against this board if we do not cooperate, which will make monkeys out of all of us. Amendments which have been proposed will serve only to 'ball up' the regulation which is being sought and the same condition will result as before. The proprietors of the road houses are worthy of some consideration by this board. The business which they conduct is a legitimate one and they are entitled to the same right of making a living as I am as a farmer."

The statement came after Assistant Supervisor Leon Garrison had offered an amendment to the present resolution, which extended the present closing hour, 11 P. M. one hour. This would provide that the road houses close at 1 o'clock Sunday morning and the amendment sought to make the closing hour 12 o'clock Saturday night.

In reply to the Palmyra supervisor, Mr. Garrison said:

Board Criticized

"This board and its members have been criticized for failure to stand for its rights. If we at this time extend the closing hour one hour at the next meeting this same group will be in here asking that the hour be extended to 2 o'clock."

The amendment was the first to be acted upon and a roll call vote was asked, which resulted in the adoption of the amendment by a vote of 15 to 11.

The original resolution presented by the judiciary committee for the control of liquor sales in the county extended the closing hour on week days to 12 o'clock midnight and on Saturdays until 1 o'clock Sunday morning, when doors were to be closed and business of all kind and nature cease. It further provided that no sales of liquor should be made on Sundays with the exception of the one hour between 12 o'clock Saturday night and 1 o'clock Sunday morning. The remaining provisions of the resolution adopted at the December meeting of the board are to stand unaltered.

New Hours Voted

Assistant Supervisor H. L. Gehant of Dixon moved that the new resolution be tabled but received no second. On a roll call vote on the new resolution, the board voted 24 to 2 for the adoption of the measure. Assistant Supervisor Beede of Dixon cast one of the

Whiteside Co. Slayer One of Trio Sentenced to Die Good Friday Morn

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—(AP)—Unlawful Governor Horner and the state pardon board intervene, a woman and two men are to die in the electric chair on Good Friday, a week from today.

Clemency pleas in behalf of Mrs. Gertrude Puhse and Thomas J. Lehne of Granite City were taken under advisement by the pardon board yesterday. They were sentenced to death for the slaying of the woman's husband after illicit relationships.

Harry Faulkner, Granite City attorney, and the Rev. R. A. Martin of Edwardsville asked that the sentences be commuted to life imprisonment. State's Attorney Lester Geers opposed the pleas.

The last appeal has also been taken in behalf of Fred Blink, whose attorneys claim was insane when he killed five of his Whiteside county neighbors.

The pardon board's recommendations concerning the condemned trio will be made to the governor within a week, in time for an announcement before the scheduled executions of Lehne and Mrs. Puhse at Menard and Blink at Joliet.

Cal G. Tyler, candidate for reelection as city commissioner at Tuesday's election, made the statement today that he wished the public to know his position as regards the purchase of the Dixon Water Company. Commissioner Tyler stated that he was opposed to the purchase of the water company by the city at the time of the recent election on that question and that now, since the people of Dixon have so overwhelmingly registered their opposition to the purchase, he is more than ever opposed to such a move.

WHY NOT LIVE?

By Joseph Fort Newton.

KATHERINE MANSFIELD was a gay and gallant soul, despite the grim tragedy which brought night down upon her before noon. Even so, there was never a whine, and she went away with a song. She wrote stories of fairy-like fineness, in the Russian manner, and some of them one can never forget. One called "The Wind Blows," makes my heart ache with a strange, half-filled wistfulness.

But some of us love her best in her letters, which are legacy of beauty and pathos and courage. Bits of pilgrim script, they are, telling us how we can face the worst in life and believe the best.

What is life for? she asks and gives the right answer. To live, of course. When? Now or never! It is no good spending our time getting ready to live—life may be over and done before we do.

But first we must ask and answer one question: What kind of a life do we really want to live? One we have decided, we must live our chosen life with all our heart, freely, joyously, fully as we can.

"Why won't people live more freely and widely? But no, there they are—smug, like little plants in pots—that ought to have been put out in the garden years ago. But they prefer their life on the shelf—out of the full force of the sun and the wind.

"Oh, I long for gaiety!" she cries. "For a high spirit—for gracious ways and happy love. Life without these is not worth living. But they must be! We have real wings to fly with and not hide under. I love courage, spirit, poise, more than anything else!"

She lived a brief, brilliant life, full of force and fire and loveliness, a gracious, giving life, and my one swift glimpse of her showed a face alight with vision and aglow with wonder and joy.

She did not postpone life, knowing that she was smitten with mortal ill, and had no time to waste. Nor have we, though too often we dawdle along as if we had days and nights to throw away.

Why not live, giving all that we are to it? Whatever may lie beyond, if we fail of life here how can we ask for more?

Miss Stata Brimblecom Bride Geo. Wolf

Charles Edward Brimblecom announces the marriage of his sister, Stata Frances Brimblecom, to Ralph George Wolf, on Monday morning, March 4th, at St. Patrick's church, at Hennepin, Illinois.

The news of the wedding comes as a surprise to a large number of friends of the young couple, both of whom are popular and highly esteemed in many circles. So last evening as news of the marriage was confirmed neighbors and relatives and friends, about eight in all gathered at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wolf, about two miles out on the Pump Factory Road, where the couple are now making their home, and held a miscellaneous shower for them. It proved a merry evening for all, music and cards speeding the happy hours. Delicious refreshments were served later and much amusement was derived in watching the happy and blushing bride, assisted by the groom, unwrap her gifts, most of them beautiful and useful, some of them given with funny verses for amusement. It proved a very enjoyable occasion for all in attendance and all wish Mr. and Mrs. Wolf many years of happiness and prosperity. For the present they are living with his parents and they will divide their time between his home and hers, until they take a farm of their own. The bride is a charming and vivacious young woman, and the groom is a sturdy and genial young man. Their many friends will unite in extending their best wishes. Mr. and Mrs. George Grasser of McNabb, Ill., sister of the groom, and her husband, were out of town guests.

The STORY of EASTER

The next day, Tuesday, as Jesus entered the Temple, a group of chief priests, scribes, and Pharisees approached, hoping to ensnare Him. They inquired of Jesus the nature and origin of His mission, pretending that they were competent judges of His claims. But Our Lord clearly showed them that if—as they themselves confessed—they were not able to decide whether the baptism administered by John the Baptist was of heaven or not, he had a perfect right not to consider them competent judges of the character and origin of His own mission. To Pharisees who asked Him whether it was lawful to give tribute to Caesar, Our Saviour answered that they could not have accepted the coins of the emperor without recognizing his sovereignty and thereby declaring it lawful to pay him tribute. The Pharisees went away dumbfounded at His wisdom. Jesus next put the Sanhedrins to rout by asking them how the Messiah could be the son of David, and yet be called "Lord" by David himself. Afterward, Jesus left the Temple, foretelling its utter destruction.

Struck by Jesus' sadness as He quitted Jerusalem after taking final leave of the Temple, His disciples followed Him out of the city and up the slope of the Mount of Olives. At the summit, He turned for a farewell glance at the beautiful city, and prophesied that at some future time there would not remain a stone upon a stone of the great buildings. His disciples asked: "When shall these things be?" For them, then, Our Lord pictured the day of the world. As the awful Day of Judgment draws near, He prophesied, there will be signs in the heavens, roaring of the sea and waves, earthquakes and pestilence and famine. Preceded by His Angels who would summon all nations, Jesus foretold, the Son of Man, with power and majesty, will come in the clouds of Heaven and separate the "sheep" from the "goats." To the former, the King will say: "Come, ye blessed of My Father, possess ye the Kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." To sinners: "Depart from Me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire which was prepared for the devil and his angels."

Next — Sanhedrins plot for Jesus' destruction.

NEW YOUTH PROBLEM FACED BY PARENTS

The falling birth rate is apt to do a good many things to America before it gets through. One of its unexpected by-products may be the emergence of a vast race of spoiled children.

This quaint development is suggested by Prof. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago, in an article in the current issue of the magazine Better Times.

Professor Ogburn figures it on a straight supply and demand basis. The supply of children will decrease—or, at any rate, will not increase at the old-time rate. The demand, in the sense of the love of parents for their children, will remain just as high as it ever was, and will perhaps even increase.

The result will be that the child will be appreciated more.

As Professor Ogburn remarks:
"It seems probable that the child will receive more attention. With some groups that will be good for the child, no doubt. In many cases this out-of-the-ordinary attention may make the child too self-centered."

You can carry it still farther. Every parent knows that one of the most powerful tools in the molding of a child's character is the bestowal of praise and blame for the child's acts. Where children are prized more highly, comparatively, it is logical to expect that the scales will be diminished, and the amounts of praise increased.

But Professor Ogburn isn't through yet. He points out that when the proportion of children in the population is smaller, the average child will naturally associate with his elders more than is now the case.

This will increase his precocity, but he will not get those subtle, toughening influences which come from constant association with youngsters of his own age.

Tomorrow's child, then, seems destined to approach manhood and womanhood under something of a handicap. And this rather gloomy forecast is just one more reminder that modern times seem constantly conspiring to place new responsibilities on the shoulders of parents.

There was a time when the parent's hardest problem was to find some way to feed, clothe, and educate a constantly growing brood. Shrinkage in the family's size is apparently going to replace that problem with a new one, equally difficult.

HAWAII SETS EXAMPLE OF U. S.-JAPAN AMITY

Every nation seems to need some pet enemy to fear—some class or group on whom can be focused all the vague suspicions and distrusts which are a part of nervous and restless modern life.

For modern America that role seems to be filled just now by the Japanese. Some of us can give ourselves the jitters just by repeating the word Japan over and over. Japan as a foreign power, Japanese as dwellers in our midst—either way, we unload our vague uneasiness on them.

Now there is no bit of American soil with as many Japanese residents as Hawaii; and it is worth while, therefore, to see whether this timorousness is shared out there. If it isn't, it ought to be a pretty good sign that our fears are overdrawn.

There is at hand a special edition of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, printed recently to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the arrival of the first Japanese settlers in Hawaii; and all people who think that trying to get white Americans and Japanese to live harmoniously side by side is like trying to mix oil and water ought to have a look at it.

For this edition presents a glimpse at a Japanese community which is about as thoroughly Americanized as anyone could wish. Living on an island in mid-Pacific, these Hawaiian Japanese are looking toward Washington and not toward Tokio.

The very advertisements have an American ring—as, for instance, a cheery broadside from the "Young Men's Buddhist Association."

And there is in it an article by a Japanese resident of the islands pleading for understanding by white Americans of the Japanese-American viewpoint. This Japanese—born under the American flag, educated in American schools, proud of his position as an American citizen—says bluntly:

"What more can you expect from a man than that he be willing to sacrifice his life for his country, if necessary? I hope to God that this country will not be involved in another war, but if it does you will find the New Americans fighting among the front ranks for the Stars and Stripes."

"Our blood and our hearts thrill at the sound of the 'Star-Spangled Banner.' We hold sacred the great heritage given us by the framers of the American government."

The moral of all this is almost too clear to need exposition. It has proved possible for the two races to get along in harmony on an isolated group of islands; and since that is true, those of us who never see a Japanese from one year's end to another ought to be able to calm our fears.

These "inevitable enemies" seem to become very good friends, once anyone takes the pains to meet them halfway.

STUDENT MORALS
ARGUMENT WAXES
HOTTER IN IOWA

Officers of Fraternity and
New Jersey Lawyer
Take a Hand

Iowa City, Ia., Apr. 12—(AP)—Two national officers of the Phi Beta Delta fraternity today threw the weight of their influence into the inquiry into fraternity morals at the University of Iowa, while a New Jersey attorney threatened legal action unless the "right" of his clients are upheld.

The attorney, Joseph Teich of Passaic, N. J., who said he represented four members of the fraternity suspended on morals charges asserted he was here to "see that justice is done." He is a brother of Leo Teich, who was among the students suspended after two Iowa City girls testified in court to alleged immoral relations with students at the Phi Beta Delta fraternity house.

Erving Kahn, national executive secretary of the fraternity, and Harold Behr, western vice president, were the national officers who entered the picture. They had appointments with Dean of Men Robert E. Rlenow today. So did Attorney Teich.

Kahn said concerning the fraternity's disbanding, "We are not interested in being represented at a university where such conditions are permitted to exist."

Behr asserted, "I do not blame the University for attempting to deny that similar practices existed in other fraternities on the campus—why should they admit it?"

Anna Katherine Green,
Authoress, Died Today

Buffalo, N. Y., April 12—(AP)—Anna Katherine Green, noted author of detective mysteries, died here after an illness of several months. She was 88.

Miss Green, in private life Mrs. Charles Rohlf, was the author of 27 novels. Her first was "The Leavenworth Case," written 56 years ago. Her last book, "The Step on the Chair," published when she was 77, was her favorite work.

Miss Green wrote "The Leavenworth Case" to attract attention to her poetry. Instead, she became a popular fiction writer.

Quincy—Witnesses, testifying in the suit of Walter Farlow to break the will of his mother, Mrs. Jerusha Farlow, wealthy Camp Point resident, who left the majority of her estate to a daughter, Mrs. Kate Hickman, said the woman failed to recognize an old family housekeeper at the time the will was drawn and that she said the house was haunted. The testimony was designed to prove Mrs. Farlow was of unsound mind.

Three Exonerated of Part in Fatal Blaze

East St. Louis, Ill., Apr. 12—(AP)—Police today had exonerated three men, held two days for questioning in the death of Cabionos Hermon, a watchman, from burns suffered in a fire March 30.

The officers said the men had engaged in an argument with Hermon, but were not implicated in the fire which destroyed the building Hermon was hired to watch. Hermon was apparently asleep when the fire began.

Several Weeks of Rain
Would Curb Chinch Bugs

Urbana, Ill.—Prof. W. P. Flint of the University of Illinois said that several weeks of rainy weather would prevent repetition of the $40,000,000 crop loss Illinois farmers suffered last year from chinch bugs. Continued rainy weather in the next six weeks, he said, will kill the insects by fostering a white fungus disease, fatal to chinch bugs.

Church of Brethren

The gospel meetings at the Brethren church has been well attended regardless of the rain and cold, and a fine audience greeted the Rev. G. L. McClannathan, pastor of the East Jordan, United Brethren church last night, and the interest manifested gave evidence to the good spirit which is working in the hearts and lives of those who are attending and enjoying these services. Mr. McClannathan used a text found in 2 Corinthians 5:21 "For he hath made him to be sin for us, who knew no sin, that we might be made the righteousness of God in him." He stated that Jesus was a perfect man whose life always moved aright, without sin. His enemies

With all the Tinsies on the cage, just look ahead, and you will see the place where we will stop."
"Why, it's a tent town," Goldy cried. "The strangest sight I've ever spied. Let's hurry up and reach the place. Then to the ground we'll hop."
In just about five minutes more, they heard the monkey owner roar, "Well, here we are. The place is yours. Have all the fun you can! Peek in the tents and you will see the strange beasts that belong to me. But, first, release the monkeys just as quickly as you can."
"They don't like being in a cage. It often puts them in a rage." Within a minute all the little monkeys scampered free.
The Tinsies watched them race around and turn flip-flops upon the ground. Wee Dotty laughed out loud and said, "They're happy as can be."

When Jesus was baptised and at the transfiguration heaven opened and the voice of God was heard when he said: "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." He urged all to live for truth, honesty, justice, and dedicate their lives to the great principles of the Son of God.

Another of Dixon's Landmarks Wiped Out by Wreckers' Axes

The second Dixon landmark of pioneer days to feel the wrecker's axe in the last fortnight is the old James Manges buildings located at the corner of Water street and Peoria avenue. The razing has been supervised by Fred French, Polo, who bought the buildings on the 200x150 foot property.

As early as 1872, old residents recalled yesterday, a lumber yard extended from Peoria avenue along River street to Hennepin avenue, owned by Isaac Means and William Patrick. These men built flatboats, and shipped grain and hides to St. Louis down the Rock river. Across the street from the Manges property on Peoria avenue, James Hatch operated a bakery, famed for its bread in this section.

Lumber Sawed Here

The lumber used in buildings on the Manges property was made in Dixon. Logs were formerly floated down the river from the north, and chained together at the old mill-race. The log jam extended as far up the river as the cement plant present site from the mill-race where the I. N. U. hydro-electric power house is now located. James Manges owned a large feed shed, and stables on the property, and was one of Dixon's most respected citizens.

Mr. French conducted the razing of the present buildings with military precision and skill. Everything was classified and a dozen or more men were employed on the job. He bought the lumber and took it to Polo for building purposes. He also razed the Judge Charters home in North Dixon which property is now owned by Leonard Rorer.

THIRTY BILLS PASSED OUT OF 1000 OUTLINED

Relief for Schools and the Jobless is Held Up

While more than 1,000 bills have been introduced, less than 30 have been enacted into law by the present session of the General Assembly, the Illinois Agricultural Association reports in its weekly legislative review.

Measures concerning unemployment relief, leading issues before the Assembly, are being held up pending the passage of the Federal Work Relief Bill in the former case, and the report of the State Education Commission in the latter case, the I. A. A. asserts.

The House Committee which went to Washington to interview federal relief authorities reported back that Illinois would be required to raise the sum of $3,000,000 per month for relief purposes. Numerous bills have been introduced to provide these funds, but those most likely to be pushed were introduced by Sen. Williams and Rep. F. W. Lewis, both by request, which increases the gasoline tax from 3c to 4c to July 1, 1937, and the retailer's occupation or sales tax from 2c to 3c for the same period. The measures also greatly increase the number of trades and occupations subject to the tax of three per cent of gross receipts.

Whether relief shall be handed out in the form of cash or work is another question. The Illinois Agricultural Association is one of several groups insisting that able-bodied persons on relief shall be required to work upon public projects to earn their budgets. Some persons on the other hand, insist that relief be put upon a cash basis with no work requirement.

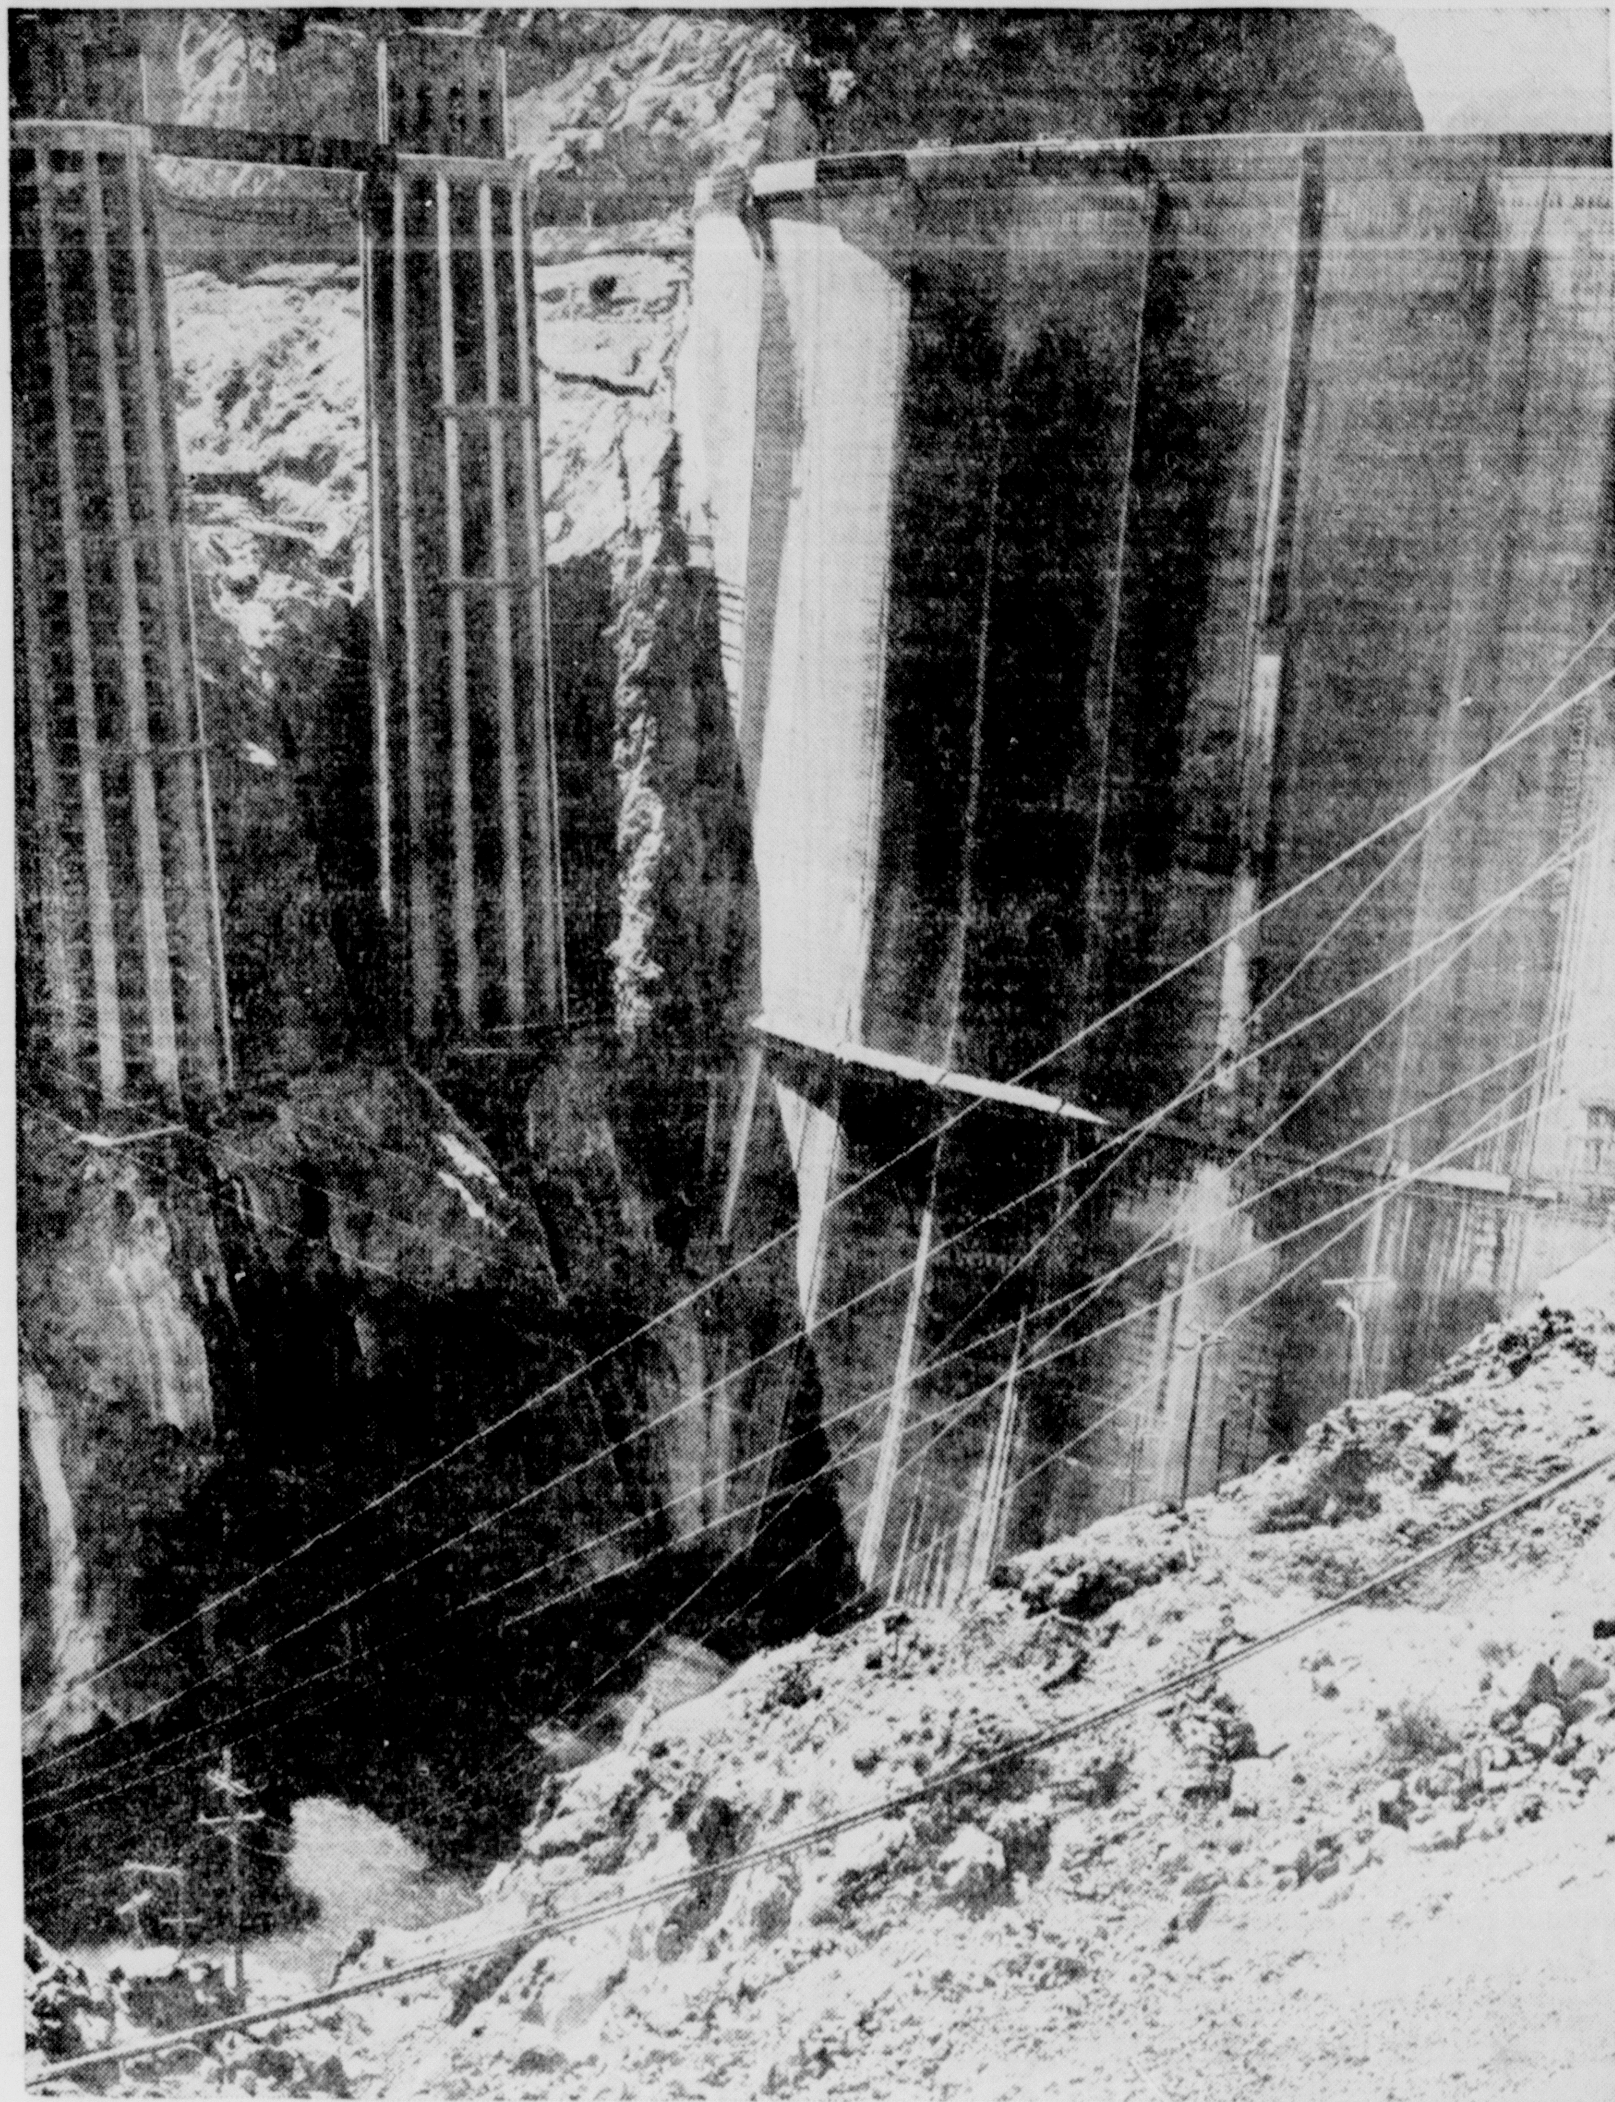

Down in Pulaski county last week, the I. A. A. is informed, farmers were unable to secure help although many persons there available for employment refused work preferring to accept relief. The report states that county relief authorities had to discontinue relief until farmers there secured the necessary help.

A number of bills providing increased funds for the schools have been introduced. There is also much discussion about consolidating country schools. This matter has been referred to the state education commission to report back to the present session of the General Assembly. The Commission had several meetings and is attempting to work out a program of permanent legislation.

Two bills introduced by Rep. McSweeney of Chicago, increasing property taxes for county blind relief were advanced to third reading last week. People generally are not opposed to proper relief for the blind, says the I. A. A. However, opponents of these measures point out that there have been many abuses in connection with blind pensions and assert that numerous persons now receiving aid are physically or financially able to get along without public charity. The present law provided that the county shall pay blind relief pensions and the state shall reimburse the county for one-half the expenditures. In many cases the county has not paid the pensions, consequently the state has not reimbursed them.

It would be well to amend the blind relief law, the I. A. A. states, to provide that the state pay its one-half regardless of whether or not the county has paid its portion. The advisability of increasing the property tax in the counties for this purpose is something else again and should be questioned in view of the fact that delinquent property taxes are running from 30 to 40 per cent of the entire levy.

The drivers' license bill was reported out of the House Judiciary committee last week. It provides that after Dec. 1, 1935, only those persons having a driver's license issued by the state shall be permitted to drive a motor vehicle. Licenses would be issued without examination to applicants within three months after July 1 this year. After this three months' period all persons applying will be required to pass an examination. A fee of 50 cents is required upon issuance or renewal of a license.

ST. JAMES LETTER

By Mrs. A. L. Hardy

St. James — On Friday evening, March 29th, Albert Bothe and Miss Irma Willey were united in marriage at Eldena, the Rev. C. Dickey performing the ceremony. These estimable young people have a host of friends who are wishing them much happiness and prosperity.

On the following Tuesday evening a crowd of about 200 neighbors and friends gathered at the Mrs. Anna Bothe home for a Charivari and party in their honor. Several other parties and showers given for them show in what high esteem they are both held by those who know them best.

An attendance contest between Mrs. C. W. Bremer's Sunday School Class and Mrs. Leon Burkett's class resulted in the latter winning. On Friday evening the class taught by Mrs. Bremer entertained the winners at a picnic supper and weiner roast at the Bremer home. The evening was spent in games and visitation.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Klosterman and family of Dixon spent Thursday evening at the Humphrey Scott home.

Miss Ethel Topper visited with her friend, Miss Elsie Schick on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Terwee Hoyle went to Chicago on Friday to care for her aunt who is quite ill.

On Monday evening Mrs. Guy Robinson and son Lewis attended a pleasant meeting at the Grace Evangelical church in Dixon. On this occasion the Y. P. M. C. of the church entertained the W. M. S. The young folks put on a most delightful program and at its close served tempting refreshments. Lewis had a part in the clever little play entitled, "When the Missionary Came."

Paul and William Beard visited Merle Topper on Saturday. Mrs. Wiley Shippert entertained the St. James Missionary society on Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance and a nice little sum was brought in as a thank-offering which will help to carry on their missionary work.

Amos Karr called at the E. G. Topper home on business on Monday.

Wednesday, April 3rd, Mrs. Henry Johns entertained the St.

James Aid at her home in an all-day meeting. Mrs. Clark Young was assisting the hostess. A delicious meal was served at noon, the hostesses contributing chicken and noodles and mashed potatoes to the bountiful picnic dinner brought by the visiting members. During the business meeting it was decided to hold a rummage sale in the near future. After an interesting program of music and readings, the guests left for their homes expressing their thanks for the wonderful day they had enjoyed together.

Tuesday evening a large company of friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Shaw, Jr., tendered them a charivari and miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Miller, parents of Mrs. Shaw. The young couple received many lovely gifts which they will find useful in their new home. Later in the evening refreshments of ice cream and cake were served, after which the guests departed for their homes, leaving with the newlyweds their best wishes for future happiness and success.

Fire patrol during the first nine months of 1934, by the Royal Canadian Air Force, amounted to 1600 hours.

DAILY HEALTH

THE PROBLEM OF DIABETES

Many years ago two scientists, Minkowski and von Mehring, removed the pancreas (sweetbread) from experimental animals and found that a diabetic condition resulted.

Subsequent study led to the conviction that diabetes is the result of the destruction or exhaustion of certain cells in the pancreas called "the islands of Langerhans," which secrete insulin. This experimental work led to the discovery of insulin, which makes the life of the diabetic more tolerable, and gave rise to the conviction that diabetes is not curable in the strict sense of the word.

This was our understanding of the diabetes problem until very recent times. Now, certain new facts cast a shadow of doubt upon the theory shadow of doubt upon the theory that diabetes is necessarily due to a disorder of the pancreas. Perhaps the best way of presenting this new development is in terms of a case history. The case reported is that of a man 27 years old who complained of thirst, frequency of urination, loss of weight and persistent hunger. These are classical symptoms of diabetes. Upon examination it was discovered that the patient showed large amounts of sugar in the urine. A diagnosis of severe pancreatic diabetes was made and the patient was treated with insulin. He required a dosage of 40 units twice daily. The patient was kept in the hospital for a month and discharged with instructions to continue treatment.

His subsequent history proved very interesting. For six months' time his urine remained sugar-free and he continued to gain weight constantly, but at the end of this period it was discovered that his need of insulin was markedly reduced. This continued until he became extremely sensitive to any insulin.

Apparently his diabetes was cured in the full sense of the word. The story is continued in our column.

A BARGAIN for PEACE

MEMEL, a short strip of land bordering East Prussia and Lithuania, may be the next bargaining point of the astute Adolf Hitler in his effort to regain Germany's "place in the sun." Under allied control after the World War, this Baltic port was seized by Lithuania in 1923 as its only outlet to the sea. The League of Nations sanctioned the seizure, under certain restrictions. Lithuania's stern punishment of Nazi demonstrators there have caused Hitler to demand that the rights of the Germans in Memel be respected. That, observers believe, is his first step toward a plebiscite which would return the territory to Germany.

Memel's postage has been a mixture of French and German stamps surcharged locally. After Lithuania's seizure, special stamps were issued for Memel. Now Lithuanian stamps are used.

LOUIS FACES BIGGEST TEST AGAINST LAZER

Lazer Formerly Was Sparring Partner of the Champion

Chicago, Apr. 12 — (AP) — Roy Lazer, an ambitious youngster from Paterson, N. J., will try to use Detroit's brown bomber, Joe Louis, as a shortcut to an important position in the heavyweight division tonight in the Chicago Stadium.

Lazer's record of 35 consecutive conquests is just about twice as long as Louis' strong, but few observers give the 21-year-old Jersey Jewish battler more than a ghost of a chance of upsetting the cunning Negro. Lazer, a former sparring partner of world champion Max Baer, is confident he can achieve the biggest pugilistic upset of the year.

Weights About the Same
Louis, due to his sensational record of 17 straight triumphs, 13 of them by knockouts, in the last year, was so much of a favorite today that there was little or no wagering on the outcome of the 10 round battle. In size, at least, they will be evenly matched, Louis weighing around 197 pounds, Lazer figuring to scale about a pound more.

One of the few who gave Lazer even an outside chance of conquering the lethal-fisted Negro was Baer himself. The champion said Lazer, who helped prepare him for his conquest of Primo Carnera and the title last June, demonstrated large ability to take it and still keep on fighting. Baer believes Lazer will help determine if Louis has been overrated.

The champion will be one of around 15,000 spectators in the big west side building. He has a notion that some day Louis will help him draw a million-dollar "gate" and wants to have another look at him in action. He also will be keeping an eye on his kid brother, Buddy, who meets Corn Griffith of Columbus, Ga., in a four round preliminary.

The promoters, Jim Mullen and Nate Lewis, have found the trade responsive to their offering. Advance sales indicate that the receipts will run as high as $30,000. The feature bout will be supported by a 10-rounder between Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg, Man., middleweight, and Al Diamond of Newark, N. J. Mile Belloise, clever New York featherweight, and Varian Milling, rugged Filipino, will meet in an eight round test.

BRADDOCK TO BE BAER FOE IN JUNE BOUT

Garden Understood To Have Met His Gate Demand

New York, April 12 — (AP) — Jimmy Braddock, a 100-to-1 shot in the heavyweight future books a year ago, apparently has been selected definitely by Madison Square Garden to give battle to Max Baer in June.

Formal announcement that Braddock has agreed to terms for a title match is expected Monday when, under the terms of its contract with Baer, the Garden must select an opponent for the champion.

Although Jimmy Johnston studiously avoided any comment that could be construed as indicating an agreement had been reached, it was understood the Garden had met Braddock's demand for 17 1/2 per cent of the receipts in exchange for a holdover clause in the contract by which the Jersey veteran would be obligated to make his first title defense under Garden auspices should he dethrone Baer.

From the same sources, it was understood June 27 had been selected tentatively for the fight in the Garden's Long Island, bowl.

WOMEN GOLFERS REACH TOURNEY SEMI-FINALS

Pinehurst, N. C., April 12 — (AP) — Two North Carolina veterans confronted two eastern players today in the semi-finals of the North and South women's golf tournament.

Helen Waring, Pinehurst ace, was a semi-finalist for the first time. She faced Charlotte Glutting of East Orange, N. J.

Miss Waring came through the quarter-finals with a one up victory over Edith Quier of Reading, Pa. Miss Glutting conquered Betty Abernathy of Pittsburgh, 3 and 2.

Estelle Lawson of Chapel Hill, N. C., and Deborah Verry of Worcester, Mass., were paired in the other bracket. In the quarter-finals, Miss Lawson turned back Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., 3 and 2, and Miss Verry eliminated Jane Cothran of Greenville, S. C., 2 and 1.

MISS RAWLS IS VICTORIOUS IN THREE EVENTS

Now Classed Best All-Around Female Swimmer

Chicago, Apr. 12 — (AP) — Swimming experts, one of the hardest lot in all sport to convince, pointed out 17-year-old Katherine Rawls of the Miami Beach, Fla., today and agreed:

"There is the greatest all-around woman swimmer in the world." Katy, a grinning, boyish looking miss, weighing only 107 pounds, convinced them beyond their last lingering doubts last night when she streaked over the choppy waters of the Lake Shore Athletic club long course pool to victory in the 100-yard breast stroke, her third straight triumph in the national women's indoor swimming championships.

And tonight, Katy will attempt to do what no other swimming champion has ever accomplished—make it four straight by winning the 220-yard free style, feature race of the night's program.

Started Wednesday
The Miami miss, who has been swimming almost from the day she crept out of the cradle, started her record-breaking surge Wednesday night by beating the nation's fastest mermaids in the 100-yard free style and the 300-yard individual medley. Last night, behind at the final turn and with defeat regarded almost a certainty, she made the large crowd stand on its feet as she swished over the waves with a dramatic finish to win from a field that included the world's record holder, Anne Govednik of Chisholm, Minn., who could do no better than third behind Dorothy Schiller of the home Lake Shore club.

Gave Team Lead
Miss Rawls' performances easily clinched her the individual high point medal of the meet with 15 points, and gave her club, the Miami Beach S. C., the lead in the team championship race with 15 points.

Katy stayed out of the low board diving competition, surrendering her title to Dorothy Poynton Hill of Los Angeles, who conquered her field with a total of 112.56 points. Under the rules, no contestant can compete in more than four events.

In winning the 400-yard relay, the Washington A. C. team, composed of Mary Lou Petty, Betty Lea, Doris Buckley and Olive McLean shattered its own world's record by 5.9 seconds by negotiating the distance in 4:15.3.

SUBSTITUTE FOR ROOSEVELT NRA BILL IS DRAWN

Voluntary Codes Will Be Provided for in Republican's Measure

Washington, April 12 — (AP) — A substitute for the administration's NRA bill was being drafted today by Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) recovery law critic, to permit only voluntary codes.

The measure was expected to prove a rallying point for many of the congressional opponents of NRA who have contended that it was crushing the little man and fostering monopoly.

McCarran, one of the authors of the resolution under which the current senate inquiry into NRA is being conducted, was the first member of congress to attempt to draft a substitute for the recovery law.

On Voluntary Basis.
While his measure was still in a tentative shape, he said it would leave the whole business on a voluntary basis. Industries which wished would be permitted to get together and draft agreements for certain specified purposes. The government regulatory agency would be set up only for those industries which wanted codes.

Under the McCarran proposal there would be no distinction between intrastate and interstate commerce. With the whole arrangement voluntary there could be no issue about the constitutionality of regulating businesses entirely within state lines.

To Continue Sec. 7 (A).
McCarran said he would continue section 7 (A), the collective bargaining section, though he did not consider it very effective, and would attempt to tighten up the enforcement of the anti-trust laws.

"I think we can enforce the anti-trust laws and yet permit voluntary association of business for certain stated purposes," he said. "But I think the anti-trust laws are more important than NRA."

BABE KNOCKED HOME RUNS OFF MANY HURLERS

Has Hit 723 Homers in Long History At the Plate

New York, April 12 — (AP) — A little stock-taking on the glamorous 20-year American league reigh of Babe Ruth as he prepares to shift his big bat to the National league and perhaps starts another chapter in the saga of making life miserable for pitchers:

Baseball's all-time home run king has belted out 723 home runs — 708 in pennant campaigning and 15 in world series warfare. The total is just 27 shy of his life time goal of 750. Sixteen of the licks came with the bases loaded.

Pitchers contributing to the carnage numbered 218. The Babe poked 398 round trippers off right-handed hurlers. Southpaws were slapped 225 times.

Next to New York, where the Babe sent 346 drives soaring over the palings at the Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium, the Philadelphia park was Ruth's favorite. He trotted around the bases there 68 times. Detroit was good for 59 homers and Boston and St. Louis each provided 55.

In Town.
Washington was his jinx town. The Babe found the range there only 34 times.

Rube Walberg, now of the Boston Red Sox, is president of the "Babe Ruth Club," composed of the 218 pitchers who have contributed to Ruth's official home run record.

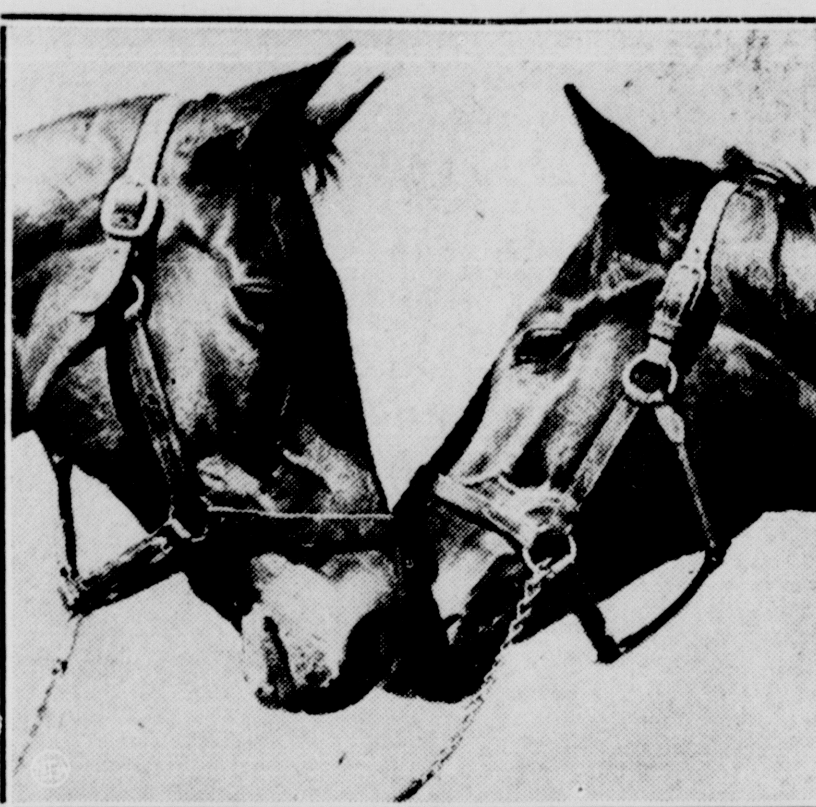

Walberg, although a southpaw, was Ruth's victim no less than 17 times. George Dauss, a right-hander formerly with the Detroit Tigers, was nicked 14 times, bringing him the vice presidency.

The Babe "kissed" Howard Ehmke of the Tigers, Red Sox and Athletics; Milt Gaston of the Browns, Red Sox and White Sox, and Walter Stewart of the Browns and Senators 13 times each; Geo. Uhle of the Indians and Tigers and Earl Whitehill of the Tigers and Senators 12 times each and Jack Russell of the Red Sox, Indians and Senators eleven times each.

Walter Johnson, than whom nobody ever threw a higher or a harder ball, is among six twirlers off whom Ruth fired ten homers.

GRAPPLERS TO MEET FURTHER TESTS TODAY

Oklahoma City, April 12 — (AP) — Safely past the preliminary rounds, the six defending titleholders in the National A. A. U. wrestling champions were ready today for further efforts of challengers to displace them as leading candidates for the 1936 Olympic team.

Ernie Stout of the Wetumka, Okla., "family of champions," barely survived the savage rush of Doak Stowe, Central Oklahoma Teachers, and was given no more than an even chance of getting past the flashy Dale Brand, Cornell College, Ia., in a 135 pound match tonight.

Other returning champions remained the favorites. Those appearing on today's program are Jack Gott, 126 pound champion from Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers college; Foy Stout, Wetumka, Okla., 145 pound ruler, and Ralph Teague, Wetumka, heavyweight.

NEGRO BOXERS FORMIDABLE IN A. A. U. TOURNEY

Dominate Heavy And Light Heavy Classes

St. Louis, April 12. — (AP) — Glove-slingers from 16 cities in the United States proper and the outlying territory of Hawaii were poised today for the 24 semi-final and titular bouts tonight in the 1935 American amateur boxing championships, with the black threat still present in the heavy and light-heavy division dominated last year by northern Negroes.

Stanley Evans of Highland, Mich., king of the heavyweights in 1934 while his Detroit teammate, Joe Louis, was cleaning up the light-heavy class, dropped this year among the 175-pounders and marked himself as a standout by two knockout victories last night.

Evans first punched Desso DeBryant, Negro from Springfield, Mass., out of the tournament, then scored a synthetic kayo over Hugh Rogers, Miami, Fla.

With Evans in the semi-finals of the light-heavy division are Leonard Bostick, another Negro, of St. Louis; Joseph Bauer, Cleveland, and William G. Irby, a soldier from Ft. Benning, Ga.

Cleveland and St. Louis, with four contenders each still in the milling, are the numerical leaders among the cities represented in the penultimate round.

Chicago Upheld in Changing Crawford Ave. to Pulaski Rd.

Springfield, Ill., April 12—(AP)—The Illinois Supreme Court today said it was all right for Chicago to change the name of Crawford avenue to Pulaski road.

In one of 17 opinions handed down, the Supreme Court dismissed an appeal by a group of business men who prefer Crawford avenue as an address.

"Specific authority is conferred by the General Assembly on cities and villages to change the names of its streets," the opinion said. "X x x The naming of streets and numbering of houses thereon are legislative matters and where the General Assembly has delegated such power to the municipalities, courts may not disturb its exercise on the ground that such exercise is unreasonable."

DIXIE HOWELL IN HOSPITAL: SKULL INJURY

Was Knocked Out By Line Drive At Practice

Lynchburg, Va., April 12—(AP)—"Dixie" Howell, his skull fractured by a batted ball, lay in Lynchburg hospital today "resting comfortably and apparently not seriously injured."

The Detroit Tiger rookie and former University of Alabama football star was injured while warming up yesterday for a practice game.

He will be in the hospital at least two weeks, attendants said after a preliminary examination. Howell's injury came an hour and a half before the opening of a game between the Tigers and the Cincinnati Reds of the National league. With a group of teammates, he was warming up on the right foul line, not far from first base. As the Detroiters passed a ball around Johnnie Mize, Cincinnati first baseman, stepped to the plate and smashed out a terrific line drive down the baseline.

The speeding ball struck Howell on the right temple. He was carried unconscious from the field.

At the hospital Dr. John W. Devine said that it would be impossible for several days to determine whether there was a skull depression.

Henderson Estate is Gradually Increasing of the late Mrs. Fannie B. Henderson who left her $400,000 estate for the construction of an old people's home. The report said the estate, still involved in litigation, has gradually increased since Mrs. Henderson's death in 1931.

Prints Are Just the Type to Headline Silk Parade

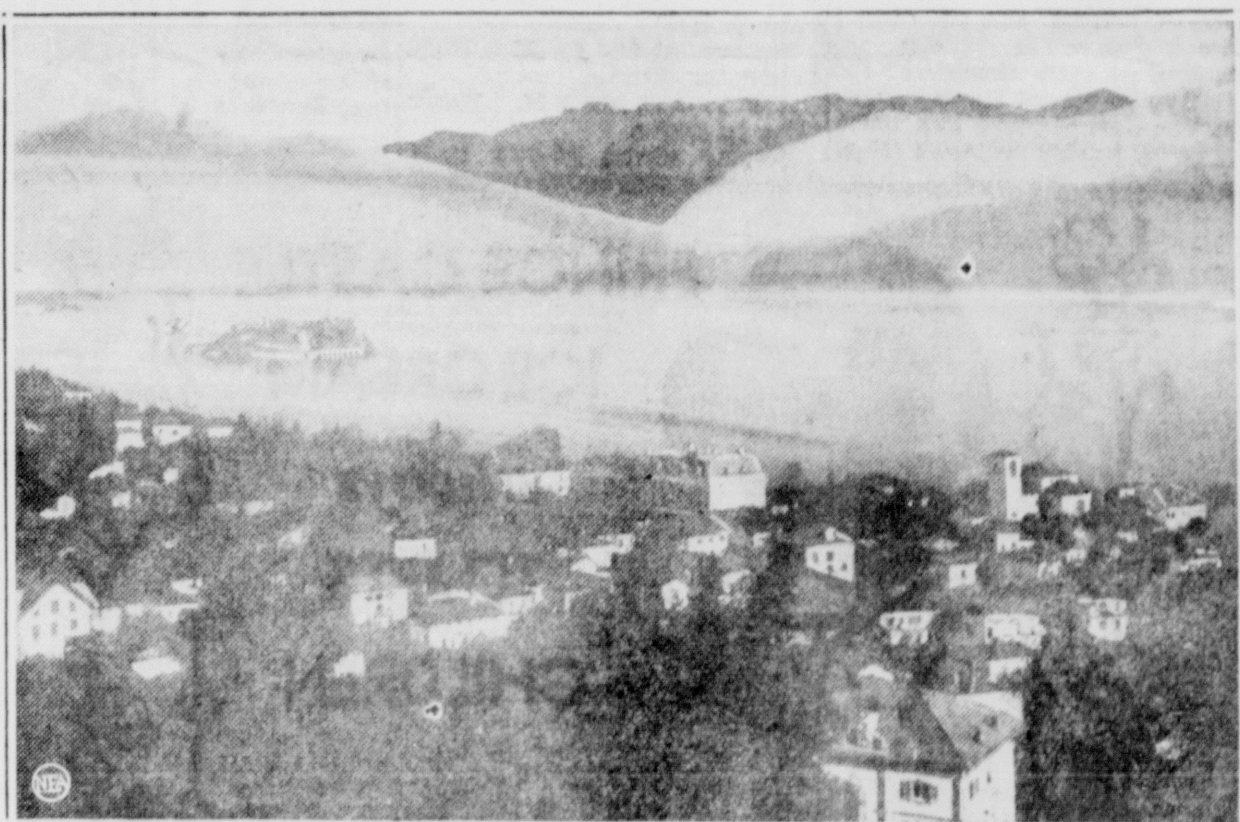

GAY COLORS FOLLOW VOGUE FOR CONTRAST

From March 18 to 23, when stores throughout the country will participate in the Silk Review of Spring Fashions as a prelude to the Easter shopping rush, women will witness a presentation of silk designs that set a new standard for attractiveness and utility. One of the favorite types is the realistic flower print like the carnations on silk crepe shown above. This frock features a new type of sleeve in three-quarter length, but shorter sleeves and peasant necklines also will be good. At right, the charming navy blue woolen redingote with a lively red and white stripe dress in silk print shows how this perennial favorite has been adapted to the vogue for contrasting costumes.

Stresa—Scene of 3-Power Peace Conference

Peaceful Stresa, beautiful little lake town over which the mountains of northern Italy tower, was scheduled to be the scene of the next important effort to maintain the peace of Europe—the conference of foreign ministers of France, Great Britain and Italy on April 11, at which Premier Benito Mussolini will attempt to form a three-power union to prevent aggression by other nations.

Britain's Ace in Peace Game

©Northcliffe Newspapers Ltd. Captain Anthony Eden, Lord privy seal of Britain, is the youthful roving ambassador in whose diplomatic ability rests much of Europe's hope for peace. His rapid rise into the innermost international councils of Europe when not yet 35 years old is the sensation of recent political history, marked by his fight for an effective League of Nations and for disarmament.

Orient's Youthful Rulers Meet

Nation-wide Japanese homage awaited 29-year-old Emperor Kang Teh as, a year after he was made ruler of the new, vast empire of Manchukuo, the last of the Manchus visited the land which helped him regain the throne of his ancestors. During his 19-day stay, the one-time "boy emperor" of China will be the guest of Japan's equally youthful ruler, Hirohito, and the royal pair will exchange the highest awards of their monarchies. Then Kang Teh will return to his empress, prevented by illness from making the trip.

A CARLETON KENDRAKE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MILICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRINGOLD, ends her employer in his office dead. JARVIS HAP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a brunette, then takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets Hap's son, NORMAN, his stepson, ROBERT CAINE, MISS HAP, and VERA DUCHENE. Mrs. Hap's maid, that night a note under her door informs Millicent, "The woman who was in the office, is here." Millicent sees the woman, tries to follow her, but loses her. Millicent goes to the chauffeur's quarters. The chauffeur is dead from a bullet wound.

NEXT MORNING SERGEANT MAHONEY takes charge of the case. Fingerprints are found on a whiskey bottle in the chauffeur's room. By means of a trick Sergeant Mahoney secures Millicent's fingerprints.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVI
DETECTIVE BUCHANAN, observing what had happened, stepped forward and said, "Make her roll her fingers over the pad."

Sergeant Mahoney shook his head, stared at the ink imprints on the pad of paper. "These," he said, "are sufficient. That's the type of print you'd find on a flask. You wouldn't find a rolled print on a glass bottle."

Millicent, having jerked her hand free, regarded the inked tips of her fingers indignantly. Then she glanced, with something of a panic in her eyes, over to the pad of white paper which Sergeant Mahoney was holding. She saw that the tips of her fingers had left very legible prints on the specially prepared paper.

"Would you," asked Sergeant Mahoney, "mind giving us your rolled fingerprints, Miss Graves? That is, take your fingers one at a time, roll them over the inked pad, and then roll them over the paper."

"I most certainly will not give them to you!" Millicent said. "You tricked me. You've got no right to take my fingerprints, as though I were some common criminal."

"We're investigating a crime," Sergeant Mahoney told her. "and we'd like to have the fingerprints of everyone on the premises."

"I don't care what you're doing," she said. Mahoney nodded meaningfully to Detective Buchanan. "We could hold her on suspicion and take them when we want."

"No," Sergeant Mahoney interrupted. "I think you'll find we've got sufficient for what we need. Take these prints with you, Buchanan. Go into the study and check the fingerprints with the ones on the bottle. I think probably you'll find you won't have to search any farther."

Buchanan nodded, took the sheet of paper containing Millicent's fingerprints, and almost ran through the door.

Sergeant Mahoney stared across at Millicent and said accusingly, "Why didn't you tell me you were in Harry Felding's room?" Millicent said silent.

MAHONEY went on, thoughtfully, "You were trying to shadow someone last night. That means, of course, that someone else was out. That someone might have been the one who committed the murder, were it not for the incriminating evidence which now indicates that you went to Harry Felding's room." Millicent continued to say nothing.

"Was Harry Felding there when you entered his room?"

"You have tricked me," Millicent said, fighting back a desire to burst into tears. "I am not going to answer another one of your questions."

"You'll have to sooner or later. You'll be called before the coroner's jury and perhaps the grand jury."

"I'll have an attorney to represent me, then," Millicent said with a show of courage she did not feel.

Sergeant Mahoney lit a cigaret. "I don't think you did it," he told her. "I wish you'd come clean with me. It would simplify things enormously. If you don't tell me the whole truth, things are going to go hard with you. If you do, there's a chance I can save you."

"I am telling you nothing," Millicent said.

"Who were you following?" She ignored his question.

Sergeant Mahoney took a note-book from his pocket.

"Well, anyway," he said, "we'll get the license number of that automobile you were following. What did you say it was—914301?"

She started to correct him and give him the right number, then changed her mind and clamped her lips tightly together.

Sergeant Mahoney started to say something else, but was interrupted, as running feet sounded in the corridor. The door of Millicent's room banged open without a preliminary knock, and Detective Buchanan, his face flushed with anger and mortification, stood in the doorway.

"My God," he said, "that flask . . . !"

Sergeant Mahoney made a quick motion. He raised his hand, palm outward, but Detective Buchanan failed to interpret the gesture.

"That flask," Buchanan said. "It's been smashed into a million pieces. Someone ground it into powder with a bronze book-end."

SERGEANT MAHONEY sighed, shrugged his shoulders, and said very softly, "When you get to be a better detective, Buchanan, you will know better than to leave valuable bits of evidence around where suspects can get hold of them. You'll also know better than to tell other suspects when that evidence has been destroyed. If you'd had sense enough to tell Miss Graves her fingerprints checked identically with the fingerprints on that flask I think she'd have made a statement. As it is, she'll take advantage of the situation by keeping quiet."

Buchanan stared at Sergeant Mahoney with a crestfallen expression.

"I'm sorry," he blurted. "I didn't think I was so interested in letting you know what had happened. I think we should concentrate every effort on finding out who smashed that whiskey flask."

Sergeant Mahoney got to his feet, nodded slowly. "Did you say that Jarvis Hap gave you his key to the study?" he asked.

"Yes, I told him I had to have an absolutely safe place in which I could leave a valuable piece of evidence."

"You didn't leave him in the study with the flask?"

"Certainly not. I put the flask in the study where it would be available for the fingerprint specialist. Then I left the study myself and saw that Mr. Hap left it. I locked the door and put the key in my pocket—that is, there's a spring lock on the door. I pulled it shut and the lock clicked into position. The key was in my pocket."

"Keys to that study," Sergeant Mahoney said slowly, "are in the possession of virtually everyone in this house, with the exception of Miss Graves. That is, almost every one of the servants can get into the study if they want to badly enough. A key is accessible to them."

"If we'll hurry," Detective Buchanan said, "we can make inquiries immediately."

Sergeant Mahoney walked slowly toward the door, opened it, stood at one side for Buchanan to leave the room, then turned and stared steadily at Millicent.

"You understand, Miss Graves," he said, "that you're under a grave cloud of suspicion. Under no circumstances are you to attempt to leave this house without my permission."

HE pulled the door shut behind him with the ominous finality of one who clings the door of a cell upon an unfortunate prisoner.

Millicent got to her feet, her heart pounding. She stared at the door through which the men had gone.

So someone had smashed that tell-tale whiskey flask! Her fingerprints were stamped on it. Now they could never be identified. If she kept her head, it could never be proven that she had been in Harry Felding's room . . . except for that handkerchief. She must do something about that handkerchief.

Suddenly she realized that it she told Mr. Hap frankly that she had tried to follow the woman in the black ornate coat he would understand. In fact, Millicent realized that she only needed to tell the entire truth, up to the time she returned to the house and sat in that wicker chair on the front porch. She could tell Jarvis Hap that she had used the borrowed front door key just as soon as she returned to the house. Hap would believe her.

She regarded her ink-stained fingers, stepped into her bathroom to wash the ink stains from her hands. The ink came off readily enough with the aid of soap and a scrubbing brush. She dried her hands, surveyed herself in the mirror, made up her mind that she would go directly to Mr. Hap and explain to him just why she had borrowed Bob Caine's automobile.

She stepped from her bathroom, opened the door to her room, and suddenly recoiled.

A masked man, wearing an overcoat with the collar turned up around his neck, was ransacking the drawers of her dresser. He heard the sound of the door from the bathroom opening and swung around to face Millicent. She could see his eyes gleaming through the holes in the mask.

Millicent gave a half-stifled scream.

The masked figure extended his hands as though about to throttle her and slowly advanced, teeth bared, eyes glittering.

"If you scream," he announced in a hoarse voice, "I'll kill you. If you don't . . ."

He broke off and chuckled meaningfully.

That chuckle told Millicent more than words.

SHARPEST RISE IN BUSINESS IN YEARS FORESEEN

Dun & Bradstreet Review Makes Optimistic Predictions

New York, Apr. 12.—(AP)—The sharpest business rise in 25 years was forecast for the immediate future in the weekly business review by Dunn & Bradstreet today.

"More convincing proof has come forward that the passing of March left behind the lows for the year," the review stated.

"During the week there was a complete transformation of sentiment, as the hopes for a rather far-removed improvement were replaced by a realization that the immediate future is to bring the sharpest rise that has been witnessed in business in the past quarter of a century."

The review added that the rise "will be fortified adequately to prevent the interrupting recessions which followed the spurts of the last two years."

It continued: "Potential benefits of the five billion dollars appropriated by the government have provided stimulus needed to dispel the impatience which had appeared in some branches because of the let-down in business toward the close of the first quarter."

"All of the reports received were more decisive than at any time this year in the confident attitude taken regarding a more even tempo of progress from now on.

GOOD THOUGHTS

If there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any bowels and mercies, Fulfill ye my joy, that ye be like minded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind.

—Philippians 2.

Our need for more love is made evident many times throughout the day's work and play. Patient and persistent striving to dwell in Love does more to oil the wheels of daily living than anything else. It is a tendency of the so-called human mind to believe that the height of happiness is reached through being loved, but a truer understanding of the meaning of love proves that the highest happiness is found in reflecting Love—in giving. John, in his first epistle, indicates a clear concept of Christlike love when he writes, "God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him."

—The Christian Science Monitor.

True love is humble, thereby it is known; Girded for service, seeking not its own; Vaunts not itself, but speaks in self-dispraise.

—Abraham Coles

Men and women existed before creeds; love is the only religion.

—Mrs. Campbell Prater

Divine love is a sacred flower, which in its early bud is happiness, and in its full bloom is heaven.

—Hervey.
